LOT 1086 - Genuine Ancient Roman Aqua Glass Bottle – 2" High

Description

This is a true Roman antique, a hand-blown aqua glass bottle from the 1st to 4th century AD. It stands 2 inches tall and likely served as a container for oils or perfumes. The soft aqua hue and subtle iridescence reflect centuries of age. Features include a rounded body, short neck, and flared rim. Light surface weathering and mineral deposits are consistent with ancient glass. A fine, original artifact from the Roman Empire.
